Anti-Fusionists Boo and Shout at Speakers - Finally Reach Agreement.

The Republicans fell into line last night behind the fusion ticket. After four hours of the bitterest kind of fighting marked with wordy assaults of the harshthey agreed to support John | me Purroy Mitchel for Mayor, George Mc-Aneny for President of the Board of Aldermen and William A. There was no doubt at any stage of the receedings that if Charles S. Whitman ad by so much as a nod of the head intested that he would run for Mayor ne Republicans would have bolted the usion ticket and started a race with him to the head of their own ballot.

But Mr. Whitman sent word to the head of their own ballot.

But Mr. Whitman sent word to the eiting that he was not a candidate, that it in his lightly and the man agreed to vote, solely on the lightly and man agreed to vote, solely on the lightly and man agreed to vote, solely on the lightly and man agreed to vote, solely on the lightly and man agreed to vote, solely on the lightly and man agreed to vote, solely on the lightly and man agreed to vote, solely on the lightly and man agreed to vote, solely on the lightly and man agreed to vote, solely on the lightly and man agreed to vote, solely on the lightly and man agreed to vote, solely on the lightly and man agreed to vote, solely on the lightly and man agreed to vote, solely on the lightly and lit and lightly and lightly and lightly and lightly and lightly and dicated that he would run for Mayor ne Republicans would have bolted the usion ticket and started a race with him the fusion committee, and that in his opinion the Republicans ought to come out body and soul for fusion.

Whitman's Word Read.

The fact that Mr. Whitman has decided against the Republicans was known to many of the leaders long before the meeting began. It was noised around through the meeting and at last the text of a telegram sent late this afternoon from Bretton Woods was read. It was addressed to Frederick C. Tanner, leader of the Assembly district in which Mr. Whitman lives, and was as follows:
"Representative Republicans were prome."

nan lives, and was as follows:

"Representative Republicans were promnently connected with the committee of 107. Mr. Mitchel was selected for the Mayoraity candidate and I for District Attorney. I have stated that I would accept the nomination for District Attorney and I propose to keep my word. I will not under any circumstances run for Mayor against Mr. Mitchel. It is clearly the duty of the Republican party to suppose the second of the second man who put sonn rurroy Mitchels name before the committee. He said that no one had worked harder in Mr. Whitman's interest than he and that no one was more disappointed when Mr. Whitman had failed to get the fusion nomination for

In order to clinch the argument he gave the text of the Whitman telegram. Knowing that Mr. Whitman's nomination was out of the question, and knowing too other Mayoralty timber was scarce, the Republicans fell into line.

Albert Ottinger nominated Frank Moss. Albert Ottinger nominated Frank Moss, Mr. Whitman's assistant in the District Attorney's office, in place of Mr. Mitchel. He denounced Mr. Mitchel for his New York Central riverfront improvement plan, saying that Mr. Mitchel had tried to give the railroad city property perpetually. His attack on Mr. Mitchel was received with groans and hisses.

While the speechmaking was going on Samuel S. Koenig went around among the leaders of the other counties and in-duced them to fall in behind New York Jacob Livingston, leader ings, agreed to throw his vote for Mr. Mitchel, and after some argument from Mr. Koenis, John J. Knewitz of The Bronx

When the vote was taken these men swung the bulk of their delegations to the fusion side. The final vote was $95 for Mr. Mitchel and 169 for Frank Moss.

Samuel S. Koenig got the New York leaders behind the fusion ticket at a meeting of the executive committee yesterday afternoon. Thirty out of thirty-one agreed to back Mr. Koenig up. The single insurgent was Joseph Levenson.

The judiciary ticket and the county ticket, which were to have been decided last night will come up next Monday.

The hardest part of the fighting was not on the indorsement of the fusion ticket, but on the question of adjourning the meeting. The anti-fusionists wanted a week in which to find a condidate section. fought bitterly for an adjournment.

At times the meeting was on the point of breaking up in a riot. Cries of "Why do you lie down?" "Don't drink milk," "Stand by us," interrupted the speakers who tried to say a good word for the fusion ticket.

The anti-fusionists, enlisted mostly from Brooklyn and The Bronx, did the most of the shouting. The men on the other side sat back under the leadership of Samuel S. Koenig, president of the New York county committee, and voted.

Division From Start.

The sentiment of the meeting showed itself first on the vote for adjournment. When the vote was announced at 11:45 o'clock it stood 617 to 468 for keeping the meeting going.

The chairman of the meeting was John S. McKeon. He attempted constantly to maintain order, but his rulings were disputed at every turn and his efforts at order were wholly ineffective.

The fight on the adjournment started the moment the meeting opened. Abraham S. Gilbert, standing with the insurgents, started the fight against fusion, ile was interrupted many times before he fairly got under way, but once going the fought vigorously against indorsing the fusion slate.

"Speaking to that mass of 180,000 Republicans in the city of New York it is clear we constitute a host to be reckoned with in the city," he said. "The time has come when we must show ourselves to be men and not scavengers. I becak for those who are opposed to this self-constituted committee of whom nobody knoweth.

RESCUER LOST; OTHERS SAVE DROWNING GIRL

James Drew Risks Life for Miss Mayor Gaynor. I cannot add anything to Gobel and Sinks as Help Reaches Her.

James Drew, 21 years old, of Gravesend and Eighteenth avenues, Brooklyn, lost his life in Jamaica Bay yesterday after he tried to save Miss Gertrude Gobel, 16 years old, of 289 Bleecker street. Brookvn. Miss Gobel was rescued by Miss Nettle Casey, who swam out to the two Fourteenth street. as they struggled in the water.

Drew, Miss Gobel and Miss Olive Wagner went into the water off Rocky Point. Miss Gobel, an excellent swimmer, left her companions far behind as she struck off rapidly. She was far enough from the beach to cause them to fear for her safety when she cried out that she was exhausted. Drew immediately went toward her and reached her as she was disappearing for the second time.

Miss Gobel seized him as he tried to a elp her and they struggled wildly. Miss and his name appeared among those Wagner had raised an alarm and Miss Nettie Casey was already swimming out, while William Campbell had got a row boat. Miss Casey got hold of Miss Gobel and broke her hold on Drew. The young man went down.

Miss Casey dragged Miss Gobel to the row boat and with Campbell's help got her into it. She followed and began working over the unconscious girl, while Campbell dived after Drew. It was seven the Gaynor candidacy in Brooklyn, reported minutes before he brought the body to yesterday that he had received 10,000 Gaythe surface.
